

Investments in the Battery Storage Containers with a return of up to 29.5% per month

An energy container based on lithium batteries with a capacity of 1MWh is designed for the accumulation and storage of electricity. It is used in projects with solar and wind power plants, in industry, at sites without a stable power supply, and also as a backup power source.

What are Battery Storage Containers?

The container form allows for quick scaling of capacities and integration of the solution into any infrastructure. All components are built-in: batteries, control system (BMS), inverters, cooling and protection.

- Key element for “green” energy and off-grid solutions
- In demand in Europe, USA, Middle East and Asia
- High profitability due to long-term lease by energy companies
- Failure-free operation and service life of up to 15 years
